Roth IRA rollover language updated on OPERS forms and applications; compliance required by June 30, 2011

Who should read this notice
Human resource professionals, finance directors and payroll professionals who handle or archive OPERS forms or applications

Situation overview
Many OPERS forms and applications have been revised to update Roth IRA rollover language. The revised versions are currently available on the OPERS website or My Benefits System (MBS) and must be used as of June 30, 2011.

Here’s a list of the revised forms and applications:
- Traditional Pension Plan Refund Application (A-4T)
- Combined Plan Refund Application (A-4CO)
- Member-Directed Plan Refund Application (A-4MD)
- Lump Sum Money Purchase Refund Application for Applicants Under Age 65 (A-4MP)
- Application for Additional Annuity Lump Sum Payment (AAA-4)

What employers need to do
Many employers archive forms and applications so they are available upon employee request. If your organization stores forms and applications, we ask that you:
- Determine if you are storing any of the forms/applications listed above,
- If yes, stop using outdated version immediately
- Destroy stockpiled supply, and
- Encourage employees to register for My Benefits System (MBS) or access the OPERS website to perform self-service

As of June 30, 2011, only the current versions of the forms and applications will be accepted.
